PARTNERSHIP IN PRINT

FROM OUR MINISTER

Some years ago I remember hearing some politicians criticizing their opponent's economic policies and the claimed level of debt that would be generated. It was taken as a given that debt was bad and the criticism claimed that the debt would be saddled on our children and grandchildren. In order to borrow for the building of some project now, our grandchildren would be required to pay for it we were told. As often with the political to and fro, the merits of one or other project, its investment or benefit to future generations were not explored.

I noted with interest the use of a similar argument but from one of those being asked to pay for our generations' largesse. Greta Thunberg in her speech to the UN Climate Conference in the US this week railed against world leaders for leaving the heavy lifting and the consequences of climate warming to our children and grandchildren. Despite our generation being the beneficiaries of the expansion and development that has caused the problem, we have not paid the price for such development.

Sadly, we continue to see self-interest driving much of the world debate and international relations. The burning of forests in Indonesia and the Amazon, the clearing of land in Australia, the building of roads in Victoria, the use of water in Australia and many other such examples of people syphoning resources and wealth for their own interests at minimal costs to themselves and without regard to the cost to others.

As commented by Jono La Nauze in The Age, "Thunberg asks us to face the truth, and the most crucial truth is this – the people supposed to be in charge are not acting responsibly. Business as usual, politics as usual, they will fail us."

Yes we all have responsibility for where we are now. We are beneficiaries of the problem and to one degree or another have contributed to it. Some of us have greater responsibility. Those of us who have (had) power to make decisions acted on by others or to influence others or who have been more highly rewarded have greater responsibility. Bill Gates recognised this

ISSUE NO. 48
OCTOBER 2019

It seems that I have truly taken on the role of PiP editor, no longer 'editor-in-denial!'

Thanks to all those who have contributed to the October edition. I am always happy to get bits and pieces of interest to put in, as well as the necessaries, the sooner the better!

Again, I ask if you see any mistakes or there are contact details that need changing, please drop me an email to let me know. Another busy month is about to fly by… blessings to all, in his reported comments where he encouraged governments to impose wealth taxes. Yes, we as Australians, one of the wealthiest (if not the wealthiest) countries need to take leadership and responsibility for dealing with such situations.

This cry from Thunberg is actually the cry of the prophets of the Old Testament. Jeremiah, Amos, Isaiah and many more cry out to the leaders reminding them of their obligation towards justice and compassion. The demand of the prophets are for leaders and the privileged to care for the widows, the orphan, the "alien" (refugee/migrant/ traveller) and those who are the poor.

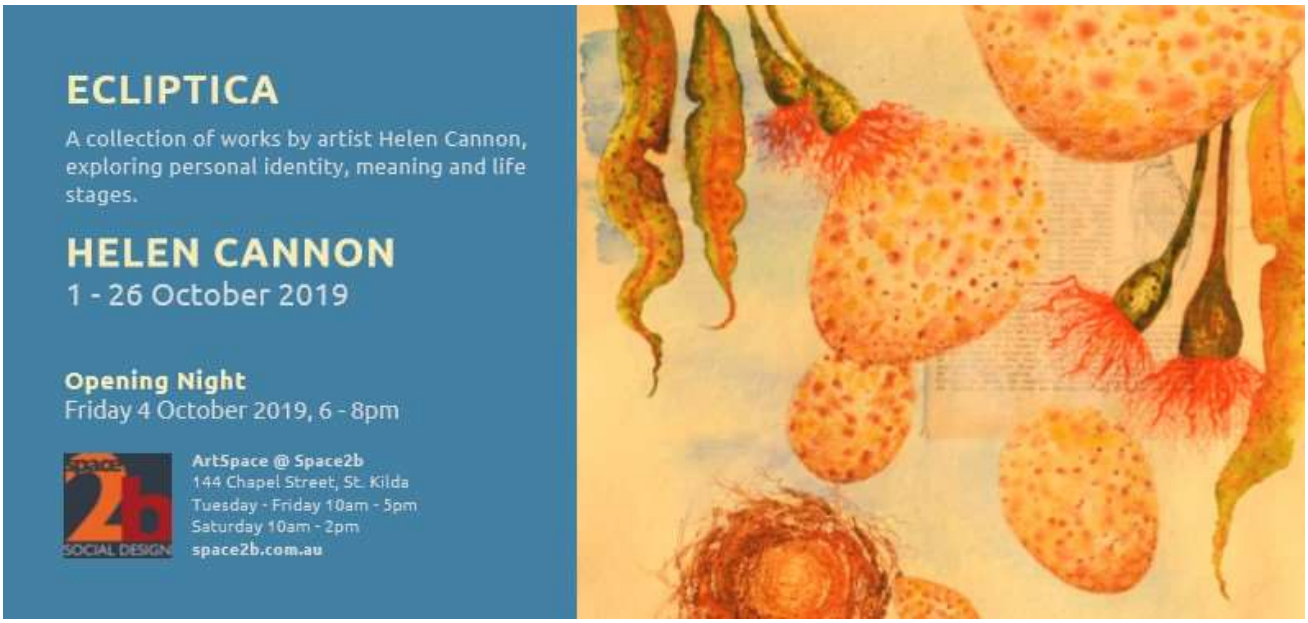
The prophets declare God's bias for the poor and weak. This is striking in the world of their time where the gods were only concerned for the strong and how to be stronger than the neighbours and competitors. (Not much has changed.) Yet our God is a god of the weak and our God's strength is shown in weakness as is highlighted by the cross.

God is concerned for building connections and relationships. Our God is concerned about healing. Our God seeks even for creation to be reconciled (Rom 8).

That means we all have a part to play. We are invited to join with the Divine purpose and mission that is life giving and healing. This is a journey that is reflected not just in building hospitals, care homes and schools but also in the healing of creation. It is more than being nice people who like to meet to pray. It also means building a community mind that seeks to be hospitable and compassionate. It considers ways to walk lightly on this world and be gentle with those we meet.

Climate change is political. Questions of international relations are political. Issues of migration are political. The expression of justice is political. But all these are intensely human questions of concern to God. They are therefore deeply entwined to our faith and theology. Let's not run from these hard issues facing us today.

Rev. Peter Cannon
October 2019



Many from the Partnership have asked about Helen Cannon's next exhibition. You are invited to attend the exhibition over the month of October or join her at the launch of the exhibition on Friday night 4th October at Space2b, 144 Chapel St, St Kilda 6 – 8 pm. The exhibition, 'Ecliptica' traces the passage of the ever-changing beauty of the annual seasons and its meaning is found in the time it takes for the Earth to rotate around the sun in one calendar year.
The nest, eggs and feathers are a metaphor for seasons in a year, both physical and metaphorical. Helen explores times of transition and change in our life journey and the various seasons we experience. This work speaks gently into the gathering of personal wisdom, experience and emotions that are uniquely ours. 'Ecliptica' ask of us "How are we experiencing life's journey at this present time and in this present Season?"

REPORT OF COCO MEETING HELD ON SATURDAY 7TH SEPTEMBER 2019 IN TYLDEN

Bronwyn Hewitt presented the reflection and opening prayer.

The minutes of the Coco Meeting held in August were confirmed.

Discussions took place in regard to the financial arrangements for post 2021, once the ministers have finished their tenure.

The upcoming survey questions are still being organised.

Confirmation of good standing has been received for the candidate for supply ministry so an interview can now take place.

The property for Mission handbook for the Woodend Missional Centre has been submitted to Presbytery.

"THE OP SHOP" SHOP 7/115 HIGH STREET, WOODEND.
Operated by the Uniting Church of Australia.

HELP! We are in desperate need of volunteers.

The Op Shop is staffed fully by volunteer labour, but unfortunately our workforce is diminishing due to some of our members reaching the grand old age of 90. We have really appreciated the long years of service these strong community members have given to us and we thank them for all their efforts.
Also, unfortunately some of our other members have been struck down with ill health, or are looking after family members who aren't well or undergoing surgery. We therefore find ourselves in the awkward position of desperately needing new volunteers to help keep our Op Shop open.
As most of you are probably aware, we try to support our local communities in a number of ways, by donating to several volunteer organisations, such as C.F.A.'s, S.E.S., Ambulance, Student Welfare, & emergency appeals both local & further afield.
We also try to keep our prices reasonable to help out the disadvantaged in our local area.
Many of our volunteers comment on the fun & pleasure they receive from working in the Op Shop. We also receive many comments of what a great, warm, shop we have from our customers, who come from near & far to shop with us & find some great bargains.
If you would like to come & have a chat with us about volunteering, for even a few hours each month, we would love to hear from you. We open on Monday, Thursday, Friday & Saturday mornings.

From Bronwyn Hewitt

GISBORNE U.C.A.F

During Eleanor Wood's last visit to India, she spent much time with Dr. Alma Ram who is head of the JKS Society, an agency of the Diocese of Amritsar, Church of North India. The Society works with single women, HIV patients and promotes gender equality, particularly with young people. Her work covers many villages around Amritsar.

Eleanor will be visiting Gisborne soon and you are invited to hear her talk about these experiences on Monday, October 28th, at 1.30 p.m. at the Church. There will be afternoon tea and an opportunity to help support Dr. Ram's work by way of donation.

If there are any queries, please speak to Bev Gilbertson or Maree Clarke.

CLIMATE AND DROUGHT

A Gisborne Lay Preacher stated not so long ago, that God has sent the drought to punish us for our sins.

This statement upset me greatly because I believe that God loves us and wants the best for us. He is not vindictive and does not mete out punishments like droughts.

However, when I got to thinking about that statement, I realised that much of our pain is self-inflicted. Not God's doing at all.

During August we travelled to north Queensland. There were many coal mines . They benefit local businesses, creating jobs , trade, housing and growing communities.

The flip side of this is the degradation of the landscape , removal of vegetation and the creation of vast dustbowls.

On our return down South , we drove for a whole day through areas which had been flattened by big machinery. They used machines called 'scrapers'. In areas , nearly every tree , shrub, grassland was eliminated . .It was depressing scenery .

In Queensland and northern NSW , the drought was very evident. Dams were empty and rivers and creeks were reduced to sandbars .

. Very few cattle or birds were seen. Even gum- trees were under stress.

Kangaroos and wallabies were common victims on the roadways.

The resulting semi- desert was man-made, but not God's punishment.

With drought and climate change , short-sighted humans, motivated by greed, are punishing us all.

"All the best" to schoolkids demonstrations. It's their future.

LECTIONARY: Ordinary Sundays after Pentecost

A period of time that varies in length depending on whether Easter is early or late. In this period, the Church recalls its faith in the Holy Trinity. It seeks to relate its faith as a people of God to Christ's mission in the world. It commences with Trinity Sunday and concludes with the feast of Christ the King.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

(8TH sept - opinion of one person . Lance Sterling .Burwood. Excerpts from him,)

"It is always disappointing and confusing to observe politicians who proclaim a Christian Faith behaving in a manner that runs contrary to the values of Jesus.
The Sermon on the Mount calls us to a culture that is life changing and life giving. His words are a message of love, forgiveness, restoration, hope, acceptance and welcoming a stranger into our land.
How can we give assent to the words of the one we follow on Sunday but live out the opposite on Monday?
It's challenging,Particularly in the political domain, but that is the cost of discipleship._--"
(surely he Is referring to the inhumane treatment of the Tamil family)

THIS letter was followed a few days later by Dorothy Morrison of Malvern East.
____"Lance Sterling's words are a reminder that following Jesus is not just a matter of "happy clapping' and sweetness and light, but living a 'consistent and fully integrated life daily"
